PRESS RELEASE

A NEW EMPLOYEE DESIGNS HER WAY INTO THE WASHINGTON & BALTIMORE SUBURBAN PRESS NETWORK AND FAIRFAX COUNTY TIMES

Reston, VA— Washington & Baltimore Suburban Press Network in conjunction with the Fairfax County Times eagerly announces the hiring of Rhochelle Munsayac, to help increase its success within the newspaper community.

A Northern Virginia native, Munsayac is a 2003 graduate of George Mason University's Information Design Program, has accepted the title and responsibilities of Graphic Designer. Experiences and skills Munsayac has learn from her schooling and various graphic design internships will enable WSPN to become more main stream in the world on graphic designing.

Her experiences include working for companies, such as the distinguished Arlington Herald and CARFAX Centers, which have made her responsible for their graphic design materials. Her abilities will focus on giving WBSPN a fresh outlook on sales materials and presentational designs. In addition she will work, alongside Edwin Rodriguez and our production team, to help expand the advertising outreach.

"Rhochelle's talents are extremely important to us and the new Fairfax County Times Newspaper, and her abilities can provide clients with creative proposals that offer solutions to out client's needs," said Ken Courter, WBSPN Executive Vice President.

Munsayac said that she has made the right decision by selecting to work at WBSPN because it will give her an opportunity to express her innovative ideas, as well as, update and redesign components of the company's designs. She believes this will not only help to make WBSPN more successful but make it a household name.

Washington & Baltimore Suburban Press Network is a newspaper owned network vested in overseeing the success of their clients.
